THE VICE-BANQUET.

At the Driard Hotel on Saturday Evening Last.

Continuation of our Report of the Speeches Delivered.

Admiral Seymour rose amidst applause to respond on behalf of the navy, a toast that had always been well received wherever there were Englishmen. Notwithstanding all that had been said lately in the press he believed Her Majesty's ships, officers and crew, were as good as they ever were. The only thing was they wanted more of them. (Applause.) The happiest years of naval officers' lives were passed among the colonies, and for his part he was not at all anxious to go home again. (Laughter and applause.)

Lord Malgond responded on behalf of the army, making special reference to the recent revolt in the Northwest, and the remarkable alacrity with which the government had placed a force of over 4000 men in the field, hundreds of miles apart and the bravery displayed by these men in facing the enemy.

Captain Wolfenden briefly responded in behalf of the volunteers.

Hon. Wm. Smithe, premier, in proposing the Dominion Government, Senate and Commons, referred to the lateness of the hour and humorously suggested that the balance of the toasts be proposed and responded to as one a suggestion, however, that did not receive the approbation of the assemblage, for manifestations of disfavor were very apparent.

Mr. E. Crowe Baker, M. P., in responding, referred to the premier somewhat warmly. He said the motion had failed in getting a seconder and according to Mays Parliamentary practice, with which the premier should be familiar his suggestion must fail. He acknowledged the toast briefly as did likewise Mr. N. Shakespeare, M. P.

Mr. Baker then gave the Provincial Government and House of Assembly, which the premier briefly acknowledged.

His Worship suggested that as the evening was far spent all the toasts should now be taken as one and drank together. (Cheers.)

Councillor Ward, in proposing the "President of the United States," said that although he could have wished that the duty which had devolved upon him had fallen into other hands, yet it is most satisfactory to know that the toast is one which is bound to meet with that same hearty reception which is always accorded it, when and wherever suggested, in an assemblage of subjects of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen. The United States of America have been peculiarly fortunate for many years past, in having as occupants of the Presidential chair men of marked integrity and ability as statesmen, and he believed that the present occupant of that important office, President Cleveland, lacked none of those qualifications; but not only does he possess them, but he is also the happy possessor of the good will and esteem of both great political parties throughout the Union. While speaking to the toast we must not forget that great nation over which he presides—a nation of millions; our very next-door neighbors in fact, from one end of the Dominion to the other, having interests identical with our own "Kith and Kin," and sir, it would indeed be strange if these two families of nations, represented by John Bull and Uncle Sam, could not happily be in accord one with the other, as they have been for so many years past, and will, be trusted, continue to do, as long as the English language is spoken.

The toast was drank amidst great enthusiasm; the band playing the Star Spangled Banner.

Col. Stevens, U. S. Consul at this port, in rising to respond, was received with applause. After addressing the chairman and His Excellency he thanked his colleague, the most worthy representative of His Scandanavian Majesty, who was as good a king as his grandfather Bernadotte, was a good republican marshal of the despot Napoleon. He was very glad that his colleague so well understood the situation in the United States, and so highly appreciated the chief magistrate, and in the name of the people of the U. S. he warmly thanked his genial Dean. He had previously had occasion to speak of the President before a goodly audience in this fair city of Victoria, but not since he had assumed the presidential chair. He had then spoken of the remarkable career of Gov. Cleveland, whom fame had only introduced within the last decade, first as High Sheriff of Erie county, state of New York, then as Mayor of the city of Buffalo, again as governor of New York, elected by the enormous majority of nearly 200,000 votes. Showing marked ability in all these positions he was naturally the choice of his party for President—was elected; and his course since his inauguration on the 4th of March last has shown him to be more notably the President of the whole people than any since Washington. "Civil service reform," so long engrafted upon the institutions of the empire, is of but recent trial in the United States; but has been long aimed at by the people, and its earnest discussion, and the Presidential pledge in connection therewith, has doubtless occupied the mind of the intelligent proposer of the toast. Of the late, more distinguished Presidents, Lincoln, Garfield, Grant; the first was decidedly partisan; his removals were wholesale and he saw no wrong in it. Garfield was as much so. Anything republican was preferred, especially a republican from the Western Reserve. I do not speak of that other Ohio President—Hayes. My friend on the left says sotto voce, "he was a man of straw." (I didn't say it.) I think he only meant a pun, and not to publish Hayes. Under Hayes, the "Ohio idea" originated—the "Ohio idea" simply meant office. Grant was no partisan. He did not like to make changes except for cause. Grant, the Republican nominee, was in truth, a Democrat, he inhaled it from his early surroundings in the southwest, from his army associations—the army (only 30,000 rank and file) at the accession of Lincoln was naturally Democratic, because of the long continued administration of that color. I speak not of the army of a million and a quarter of men ready at the call of our President, of which the killed, during the late civil war were 200,000, of whom 10,000 were officers. Grant at one time marshaled a force of over a million—history nowhere else has recorded such a great military gathering, not the fabled host of Xerxes, not the myriads of Darius, compare in the faintest manner with a million of souls men as followed the greater Ulysses.

Mr. Mayor, the average man when assuming the perpendicular on an occasion like this, is embarrassed with the sense of, not what to say, so much as what not to say. Especially is he so handicapped in the recollection of what the distinguished Premier has just said. Could we not get from him an act of parliament to stay the time? we have the great Joshua as a precedent to set the clock back. But I digress. The expectant, anxious place-hunters waiting long years have dashed upon our President in overwhelming force?—not so. He is firm as a rock, fast anchored to the remembrance of his official oath, and serene in the consciousness of a correct discharge of a great public trust, his own astute intellect his chief adviser, he is every day more and more the President of the whole people. The many Scotchmen among you remind me of the lines appropriate in praise of him, those of your own genial and the most wholesome of all poets—"The Wizard of the North" the wonderful Walter, depicting Roderick Vich Alpine Dhu:

> Moored in the rifted rock,
> Proof against tempest shock,
> Firmer he roots him,
> The fiercer it blows.

I am aware that the "wee sma' hours" are upon us, that the portals of the Sabbath are almost open, but I must beg time to say how much I have been interested and edified by the elaborate and exhaustive presentation of the subject of so much moment to you Victorians, namely the homogeneity of the Confederation, and the inseparability of the welfare of this fair province, with that of the Dominion, and that again with the Empire; and the important results immediately anticipated on the completion of that Colossus of roads, the Canadian Pacific, 3000 miles (wanting 100) from Montreal to Victoria but little more than 12 days from this to London, and a shorter route than any other from China or Japan to Liverpool by 1000 miles and more. In fact I am informed this mammoth work, with its affiliated lines, embraces more than 4000 miles of rail, and in this Canada will have attained to maintenance—as far at least as links of steel can unify, and in regard to the corroboration or correction of His Excellency's mention of our timber product which he has so graciously submitted to me. I have to say that Governor Swineford, of Alaska, twenty years resident of the Lake Superior timber region, while recently here, told me that it was beginning to show something of a deficit, but that in Alaska we had an inexhaustible yield embracing some superior wood resembling closely the famed Spanish cedar, as well as other fine grain wood, and that lumber could be landed in San Francisco of a better quality and cheaper rate from Alaska that it could be transported from the Lake Superior districts to Chicago. And I would add, Your Excellency, that much of this timber has gone to build up the cities of your colonies—also that a writer of note in the October Century magazine, in an article on Canada which I read to-day says: "The danger now is that our lumber lands which constitutes an essential part of the national capital may be exhausted within a measureable time, but we will gladly supply you from our recently acquired territory."

Nor may I omit to mention the pleasure I have had in listening to the rushing Niagara—like flow of eloquence from my American friend of the Judiciary. I venture to name him thus, because among his great stores of knowledge, he has so much about my country, not forgetting the chopping sea story of the "jolly tar," "sabre cuts, of Saxon speech." Nor can I resume my seat until I express the supreme satisfaction which I know you all share at the long continued harmony and mutual respect, in fine the entente cordiale which exists between the two great nations of the earth, the English speaking people, especially in view of the recent courteous act of international comity, of which the presence of my vis-a-vis (the Attorney General) reminds me; and while Europe, Asia and Africa are in a disturbed and excited condition. The gallant Colonel resumed his seat amidst great cheering.

The Bench and the Bar was proposed by Mr. D. R. Harris.

Sir Matthew B. Begbie, Chief Justice, on rising to respond was received with applause. His response was a very happy one. He said it was evident from the applause they were pleased to see him "here." He had no doubt it was better for them to see him "here" than (pointing significantly) "there," and from their appearance he was inclined to think it would continue to be so. After a few more appropriate remarks, which excited laughter by their aptness, the speaker, alluded to the lateness of the hour, and sat down, amidst unmistakably great applause.

Mr. Alex. McLean, J. P., in proposing the Mayor and Council, briefly sketched the vast and rapid progress the city had made since 1862, and the certainty that in consequence of our unrivalled climate and its great natural advantages the future progress of the city must be equally great. In 1867 the revenue of the city from all sources was but $40,000, which in 1885 had increased to over $120,000. He complimented the present Mayor and Council on their able administration of the city's affairs.

Mayor Ethet in his response said that it was his candid opinion that if he retired from the mayor's chair at the end of his term with a good character he would consider himself fortunate.

The Attorney-General, Hon. A. E. B. Davie, gave the commercial, agricultural and mining interests, to which Mr. J. H. Todd, President of the Board of Trade, made a brief response.

Then followed in rapid succession the press and the ladies, which received responses from Messrs. Higgins, McLagan, and Lieutenant Garforth. The band, which throughout the evening had discoursed excellent and appropriate music, struck up the National Anthem, His Excellency leaving the room followed by those present. This ended one of the most pleasant banquets ever held in this city.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing as well as the hands and feet. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents as well as removes dandruff, cools and soothes the scalp, and stimulates the hair to renewed growth and beauty. *

A peculiar virtue in Ayer's Sarsaparilla is that while it cleanses and purges the blood from all corruptions and impurities, and thereby roots out disease, it builds up and invigorates the whole system, and makes one young again. *

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Is it True?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Never were the good people of Victoria more astonished than they were on Thursday last when your morning friend, the Colonist, made the impudent and false statement, viz.: "Ours is a country without a grievance."

With twenty thousand Chinese in our province, and the same employed and preferred before their fellow white men, is it true?

With a railway being built with public money, and Chinamen building it, is it true?

With the dry dock and other public works in course of construction, upon which the Chinaman is employed, while the white laborer is tramping our streets hungry and illy clad, is it true?

With a heavy tax of from 25cts to 40 cts. duty on everything we consume, is it true?

With a patched up and torturous franchise bill, in the place of manhood suffrage, is it true?

"No!" is the unanimous verdict of every WORKINGMAN.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Ascertaining the Traffic Sound Ports can Offer.

The Seattle Chronicle, of the 12th, says: An agent of the Canadian Pacific railroad company visited this city Saturday to gather statistics as to the amount of traffic Seattle affords transcontinental roads. He was assisted in his efforts in securing the desired information by a gentleman thoroughly posted on the subject. He expressed himself highly gratified at the results of his investigation, and gave his assurance that his road would not only bid for Seattle's patronage but would offer such inducements as both to secure and hold her transportation business. The Canadian Pacific being a short line from ocean to ocean would be, he said, a formidable rival to the five Pacific railroads in the United States. He proceeded from here to other points on the Sound to ascertain facts as to the amount of their transcontinental traffic. It is the intention of the Canadian Pacific to establish steamer routes between Port Moody and Sound ports early next year. Verily, the outlook for Seattle is exceedingly hopeful.

Reuben Butler at the Head.

In the Weekly Oregonian of Oct. 2, weights are given of the best short-horn bulls exhibited lately at the State show, held as usual at Salem, Oregon. The best animal shown, "Red Thorndale," whose "grand colossal form" is lauded, and whose weight at 5 years of age, 1985 lbs., seems to be regarded as marvellous, would have appeared ten years ago to little advantage amongst the short-horns sent to Salem show by Messrs. Ladd & Reed. Some of their stock, when about four, exceeded 2100 lbs. in weight. The first prize taken in our province for the last two years' provincial agricultural exhibitions, Dr. Tolmie's "Rube, (Reuben Butler,)" weighed when a two-year old, 1690 lbs., and lately, as a three-year old, 1910 lbs. By sire and dam "Rube" is kin to the Ladd & Reid unrivalled importations of short horns to Oregon of 1871. Of only one three-year old short-horn bull, Governor Moody, exhibited at Salem, is the weight given as 1317 lbs., or very nearly 200 lbs. less than that of Dr. Tolmie's "Rube."

The Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway stated in Montreal on the 3d inst., that the gap in the through line from Quebec to the Pacific coast is only 40 miles, which is in progress of being rapidly closed.

GENERAL DESPATCHES.

Labor vs. Capital.

Special to THE TIMES.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—The situation in the street car strike is unchanged. The strikers assembled quietly at Turner's Hall this morning to await developments, the cars running on all the lines under the escort of the police. No disturbances have occurred. Some of the drivers and conductors who were frightened off by the riots, have returned to work, no serious trouble is apprehended for the present. At the meeting of business men to discuss the strike, John D. Perry, banker, expressed himself as opposed to recognizing the Knights of Labor, which he described as an irresponsible body of men. L. R. Ripley, iron merchant, said the way to act was to take the rioters by the throat and make them respect the majesty of the law. Ripley's speech was greeted with cheers. During the meeting John R. Lionberger stated for the street car proprietors that they had no grievances, and wanted no arbitration by business men or any one else.

Captured a Contractor.

Special to THE TIMES.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 12.—Hungarians employed in the construction of Croxson, Clearfield Company and New York Short Line railroad, did not receive their pay on the day it was due last week. They feared they would not get it, and attacked the Americans who were superintending the work. All escaped but one of the contractors, named Ferguson, who was captured by the Hungarians and is now held in captivity by them. They swear they will kill him if they don't receive pay by the 20th inst.

The Late San Francisco Fire

Special to THE TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—One of the largest of H. S. Crocker & Co.'s safes has been recovered from the burned building, with contents, consisting of insurance policies, books and money. They were found to be in a good condition. Chief Seanuel, of the Fire Department, detailed twenty men this morning to make a further search for the body of Fireman Hannan. The fire is still smouldering.

A Pioneer Dead.

Special to THE TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Moses Heller, a wealthy Jewish merchant of this city and a pioneer of California, died this morning.

The St. Louis Strike Faded.

Special to THE TIMES.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13.—The strike seems to have died out to-day, there being absolutely no appearance of trouble. All of the lines are running their full complements of cars, and in most places the police have been withdrawn from the cars altogether.

Wreck of Whalers in the Arctic.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The U. S. steamship Corwin brings news from the Arctic fleet to the 20th of August. She reports that the whalers Mabel, George and Susan were blown ashore in a gale of wind on August 10th in Wainwright's Inlet, longitude 100 deg., latitude 71 deg. Three of the crew of the George and Susan were lost, viz.: Wm. L. Cooper, August Wilhelm and James Evans.

During a gale the Corwin attempted to send a boat to the whaler Abraham Barker; but it capsized on the way. The officer on the deck of the Corwin seeing the accident, sent another boat in command of Lieutenant Kennedy, who after a struggle succeeded in saving the boat's crew. The following day the Corwin towed the bark Ohio to the side of the George and Susan, when all the oil and bone were transferred. The sailors of the two wrecked vessels, one hundred and seventy-eight in number, were taken aboard the Corwin and brought to this city.

Two survivors of the crew of the wrecked whaling bark Napoleon, of New Bedford, were also taken on board the Corwin. The crew consisted of thirty-six officers and seamen. After it was ascertained that the vessel was in a sinking condition, four boats were manned with nine men in each. The boats remained together one day and night, but during a fierce gale and while enveloped in fog on the second day they separated. On the morning of the fourth day the Corwin picked up one of the boats with eight persons alive and one dead. In the afternoon another boat was picked up with six occupants. The two other boats were not seen again and it is supposed they were lost. The suffering from cold and hunger was intense. Twenty-two perished, among them the first and third mates. One of those rescued, Joaquin Khula, from whom the above facts were elicited, had his feet badly frozen, and the Captain of the whaling bark had amputated his toes prior to the rescue.

The Oriental Trade.

The Northern Pacific freight department yesterday received mail advices from Frazier & Co., its Yokohama agents, that the British bark Artisan was loading at that point with tea, silk and braids for Tacoma. It is expected that the bark will be loaded in time so that she can sail from Yokohama some time this week. The Artisan is fully as fast as the Isabel, and equally as good time is expected to be made with her as was made with that vessel. The Isabel made the trip to Yokohama in thirty days, as against thirty-seven days by the Harmonia to San Francisco. The N. P. will make all necessary arrangements to handle the Artisan's cargo after she vessel reaches American waters. She has on board upwards of 2300 tons of tea, in addition to a large quantity of silks and braids. The success met with on the first experiment was sufficient to warrant the Northern Pacific to take active steps looking to establishing a regular line of vessels for the trade between Yokohama and the Pacific coast. This it has practically done, and arrangements are making to have monthly vessels sail from Yokohama to both Tacoma and Portland. It is found that surgeon can be discharged with equal, if not better, facilities at Portland than Tacoma, and consequently the company's vessels will alternate between those ports. As with the former shipment, the Artisan's cargo is consigned to St. Paul, Chicago and New York parties.

It is calculated that since the breaking out of the cholera in Hongkong, twenty thousand adults have sought vaccination in Toronto. There are many cases in the smallpox hospital, and cases are reported.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk railway for the week ending the 10th, were 300,000, a decrease of 40,000 as compared with the same period last year. The principal falling off was in Canada and live stock traffic.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

MARY ANDERSON has a very ugly foot, and she seldom shows it.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL gets a salary of $25,000 a year.

IT has been discovered that BATTENBERG, husband to PRINCESS BEATRICE, has something over three hundred relatives living in squalid wretchedness in Geneva.

THE treasury department is receiving an increased demand for small currency, which is regarded by the officials of that department as a sign of revival in the business of the country.

MR. WORTH, the dressmaker, says it is all bosh about dresses costing thousands. He says that not more than four dressmakers in Paris ever made a dress which cost as high as $2000.

THE unlaunched cruiser Chicago, recently reported as sinking in the ground at ROACH'S shipyard, Chester, Pa., has been braced up, and there will be no further difficulty in launching her.

GEORGE WILLIAM CHILD'S wealth is estimated to-day in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. His income from the Public Ledger alone is over $400,000 a year. The net income of his newspaper is over $1000 a day.

HON. J. A. CHAPLEAU, Canadian Secretary of State, arrived here this morning by the "Germanic," of the White Star line. His health is completely restored. He was met by a number of Canadian friends and leaves for Montreal to-night.

IT is manifest that had the French Canadian clergy interfered, they might have prevented the late disgraceful riot in Montreal and dissipated the prejudice of their people against vaccination. Only two of the clergy have seen fit to advise vaccination; but the most influential of them have bitterly denounced compulsory vaccination and have practically promoted popular violence.

A GREAT sensation has been excited in the Scottish highlands, and especially among the crofters, by the announcement that the extensive forests of Affaric and Knockfin, on the estate of the CHISHOLM, have been leased to MR. WILKINS, the American whose proceedings recently brought upon his head the severe reprehension of the Court of Session. He intends to add them to the vast extent of land which he occupies as a deer forest in Kintail, Strathglass and Strathfarar.

THE Montreal Herald says:—"No matter what OSTERHOUT may propose, the acceptance of the railway rests practically with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and the men managing the company are quite competent to take care that they obtain a properly constructed road." To which the Toronto Globe replies: "We have not the slightest doubt of the ability of the competent men who manage the affairs of the C. P. R. Company to take care of their own interests. What we fear is that the public will suffer. Our information is that the sections built by OSTERHOUT are not as well built in any respect as the contract and the specifications required, and that to make it a properly constructed road would require the expenditure of at least one or two millions. Yet rumor says that part of the road is to be taken from the contractors as complete. The OSTERHOUTS deal only with the government."

THE dispatches indicate British intervention in Burmah growing out of a secret treaty made by King Theebaw with the French and maltreatment of British subjects. England naturally resents any concessions made to France in Burmah, for, since 1822, she has been encroaching upon Burmese territory, and will ultimately absorb it. A railway has been talked of for some years to connect the Indian system with Burmese trade, with an ultimate terminus at the Chinese frontier. In 1826 Burmah transferred to England the provinces of Arazan, Ye, Tevoy, Mergal and Martaban, and was compelled to pay $5,000,000 war indemnity. In 1851 Pegu was annexed to India. Since that further encroachments have been made, and the eccentricities of King Theebaw will always furnish a pretext for further advances, and it is only a question of a little time when the whole country will be attached to India. It is infinitely more valuable than Afghanistan to England.

A CHANGE ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY.

The opposition journals in the maritime provinces are directing attention to the manner in which the Conservative party, and especially the Federal government, is strengthening itself in that section of the Dominion. As now constituted there are two of the Nova Scotian representatives in the cabinet, namely, HON. MR. THOMPSON, as Minister of Justice, and HON. MR. MCLELLAN as Minister of Marine and Fisheries, while HON. SENATOR MILLER is President of the Senate, and MR. DALY, M. P., Deputy Speaker. To these has to be added the name of SIR CHARLES TUPPER, as High Commissioner for Canada in Britain, ex-M. P., for Cumberland. The showing is a creditable one for the Nova Scotians. It has been feared that a wave had set in of a decidedly opposition tendency, and that all the appointments given that highly favored province have had special reference to the next general election, preparations for which are in progress in many sections in the east.

The time has now arrived when a representative of the immense empire to the north and west of London, Ont., represented by HON. JOHN CARLING, should have a seat in the Cabinet, and the wonder is that so evident an act of justice has been denied this inland empire so long. Northwestern Ontario, with its hundreds of thousands of inhabitants, has no voice in the Cabinet Councils, neither has Manitoba, which sends a delegation of six members to the Commons and three Senators; nor the Northwest Territories, which are so rapidly increasing in population and wealth, with their almost illimitable areas of the finest virgin soil on the face of the globe. It is time that enquiries have been made of the government as to its intention to give British Columbia representation in the Cabinet. The matter by some has been treated as a burlesque. We much mistake the temper of the people in that vast area lying between Lake Superior and the Pacific coast if they are likely to submit to such an anomalous state of affairs as now prevail much longer. In a few weeks this province and the Northwest will be joined by rail communication. Their interests and those of the people in British Columbia are largely identical. A strong feeling of sympathy will always exist between them, and if they but unite in their demand for that which is their indubitable right no government, or party, will remain long passive to their demand; but the movement must be a united one to be productive of success.

REPENTING AT LEISURE.

The latest divorce sensation in Chicago is that of MRS. DORAN, who in happier days, was MISS MARY A. WOOD, when she lived in Winnipeg, Man., where her father, the HON. EDMUND BURKE WOOD, was chief justice of the province. The complainant is only twenty, and she says in her bill that when she became the wife of JAMES FREDERICK DORAN, the young man represented himself to be the paying teller of the Bank of Montreal, and a member of an excellent and aristocratic family of that city. He said, moreover, that his grandfather was going to give him as a wedding gift a furnished house and a monthly allowance of $100 over and above his salary. MRS. WOOD gave the daughter $400, which the husband kindly consented to take care of as they started upon their wedding journey. She says she never saw the money again. When she reached Montreal she found her new relatives to be very common people, living not in Montreal, but at Lachine. She also says that it transpired that DORAN, while in Winnipeg, had lost his place as teller in the bank, and was a defaulter to the amount of $1560. The deficiency had been made good by the grandfather, as well as a similar one for $1700 due the bank in St. Johns, N. B. "I don't know about this," said JUDGE TULEY. "If every woman who has been deceived were entitled to be divorced, this court would never do any other kind of business. You have got to make out a case of desertion. I will read over the testimony, but I don't know."

NO NECESSITY FOR CHINESE.

It had been frequently asserted by pro-Chinese journals and capitalists that it is impossible in this province to successfully and faithfully complete a contract for a building without employing Chinese labor to at least some extent. The fallacy of this contention has just been amply demonstrated by MESSRS. WOODS & LUNEY, who had the contract for the DECOSMOS new brick block on Government street and a portion of the Roman Catholic Bishop's residence, situate on Yates street. In the former contract no Chinese labor whatever was employed, and the work was commenced, continued and eventually completed, entirely by white labor, the contractors handing over the building three weeks ahead of the time limit. Not a dollar reached the itching palm of the Mongolian. The work on the Bishop's residence was also performed solely by white labor, so far as MESSRS. WOODS & LUNEY are concerned, and it was thus again demonstrated that Chinese labor can be entirely abolished if the white classes are only true to themselves. Messrs. WOODS & LUNEY have several contracts at present in hand, and will make this city their permanent business location and residence, carefully seeing that whatever they pay out goes into the white channel, and not a cent into the polluted Mongolian pool.

THE EASTERN PROVINCES AND THE CHINESE.

Already public feeling in the eastern Provinces, especially in Ontario, says the Toronto Globe, is strongly against Chinese emigration. There are few Chinese among us yet, but our workingmen are far-sighted enough and sufficiently mindful of their own interests to speak out strongly against an increase of the number of these undesirable competitors. But none can say that our immunity from the presence of large numbers of Chinamen will continue long. There are at present over twenty-thousand Chinese in British Columbia. Of those the great majority are engaged in railway work. That work will soon be completed. There is a law of the American congress preventing the entrance of Chinamen within the borders of the Union, and there is a mob law to the same effect which Chinamen will be ready to respect. Chinamen are not given to returning to their own country until they have earned what to them is a fortune. There is no outlet for them except over the road which they have helped to construct to the eastern provinces of the Dominion. The statute law of the United States excluding the Chinese is systematically violated through a legal quibble, and this it is that has inflamed the mobs of Seattle and other places. It is to be hoped that the law against Chinese immigration which our government has been compelled to submit to Parliament, and which has been duly passed, will be well enforced, for the eastward movement of those Chinese already in the country will be bad enough for Ontario without allowing new immigrants to follow. The feeling on the American Pacific coast against the Chinese grows more bitter every day. Here is what the San Francisco Argonaut says:

"This law must be enforced, and we householders who have Chinese cooks, and farmers who have Chinese fruit pickers, and mechanics, who have Chinese laborers, and transportation companies who own ships, and customs officials who get but small salaries, and police officers who flourish upon percentage of earnings from Oriental gamblers, criminals and prostitutes—we must content ourselves with the Chinese who are in the country rightfully. * * When we find ourselves honestly endeavoring to execute the law in reference to the importation of Chinese labor, then, and not till then, can we say to our foreign citizens who work for their living and to our men and women of American birth who have inherited the curse of daily toil for their daily bread, that they must subject themselves to the law, that they shall not riot against the Chinese now in the country, and that, if they do, we will turn upon them with bayonet and ball the military power of our government."

In other words, The Argonaut contends that the riots are quite as justifiable as the non-enforcement of the law. Again The Argonaut says:—"There are ominous sounds in the air and mysterious portents in the political heavens. These murmurings and movements indicate the impatience and discontent of an angry power. * * From this time forth more attention must be paid to the reasonable demands of labor than has heretofore been accorded to it. This is the counsel of prudence." There was a time when it was supposed in "the East" that only the hoodlums would oppose Chinese immigration or justify any personal or political interference with the Chinese immigrant. That time is past. The East recognizes the importance of this problem.

WILL RIEL HANG?

A special telegram from Winnipeg to the St. Paul Pioneer Press gives the following, which may or may not be true: "SIR JOHN MACDONALD, Premier of the Dominion, in a letter to a friend here, speaking of the fate of RIEL, says it depends entirely upon the Privy Council in England. If that body decides in favor of RIEL his sentence of death cannot be carried out, but if, as SIR JOHN anticipates, it upholds the sentence, the Canadian government will not reprieve him, and he will hang. SIR JOHN also says that if French Canadians carry out their threat of rebellion if RIEL is hanged, the English speaking people of the Dominion and the government must meet them in arms. If this is to take place, if there is to be a war of race no time is better than the present, and SIR JOHN trusts that the Ninetieth Rifles, the Winnipeg light infantry, and other Manitoba regiments will be ready to go to Ontario or anywhere else ordered, and do their duty as faithfully as they have done in the past."

A cable dispatch received in Montreal states that the Privy Council will hear arguments in the appeal of RIEL on October 19.

Of Confidence.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is a medicine that, during nearly 40 years, in all parts of the world, has proved its efficacy as the best blood alterative known to medical science.

SARSAPARILLA (extracted from the root of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla) is its base, and its powers are enhanced by the extracts of Yellow Dock and Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other potent ingredients.

IS your blood vitiated by derangements of the digestive and assimilatory functions? is it tainted by Scrofula? or does it contain the poison of Mercury or Contagious Disease?

THE leading physicians of the United States, who know the composition of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, say that nothing else so good for the purification of the blood is within the range of pharmacy.

ONLY by the use of this remedy is it possible for a person who has corrupted blood to attain sound health and prevent transmission of the destructive taint to posterity.

THOROUGHLY effective renovation of the system must include not only the removal of corruption from the blood, but its enrichment and the strengthening of the vital organs.

RELIABLE witnesses, all over the world, testify that this work is better accomplished by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA than by any other remedy.

BLOOD that is corrupted through disease is made pure, and blood weakened through dissolution of the red corpuscles is made strong, by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

PURIFYING the blood and building up the system require time in serious cases, but benefit will be derived from the use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA more speedily than from anything else.

MEDICINE for which like effects are falsely claimed, is abundant in the market, under many names, but the only preparation that has stood the test of time, and proved worthy of the world's confidence, is

IN LUCK AT LAST

BY WALTER BESANT.

"We have thought well," said Arnold. "Iris has faith in me."

"Then, young man, I have nothing to say. Iris will marry to please herself, and I pray that she may be happy. As for you, I like your face and your manners, but I do not know who you are, nor what your means may be. Remember that I am poor—I am so poor—I can tell you all now, that to-morrow we shall—well, patience—to-morrow I shall most likely have my very stock sold and sold."

"Your stock sold! Oh, grandfather!" cried Iris; "and you did not tell me! And I have been so happy."

"Friend," said Lala, "was it well to hide this from me?"

"Foolish people," Mr. Emblem went on, "have spread reports that I am rich, and have saved money for Iris. It is not true, Mr. Arbuthnot. I am not rich. Iris will come to you empty handed."

"And as for me, I have nothing," said Arnold, "except a pair of hands and all the time there is. So we have all to gain and nothing to lose."

"You have your profession," said Iris, "and I have mine. Grandfather, do not fear, even though we shall all food hence, poor together."

It seemed natural to include Lala Roy, who had been included with them for twenty years.

"As for Iris being empty handed," said Arnold, "how can that ever be? Why, she carries in her hands an inexhaustible cornucopia, full of precious things."

"My dear," said the old man, holding out his arms to her, "I could not keep you always. Some day I knew you would leave me; it is well that you should leave me when I am no longer able to keep a roof over your head."

"But we shall find a roof for you, grandfather, somewhere. We shall never part."

"The best of girls always," said Mr. Emblem; "the best of girls. Mr. Arbuthnot, you are a happy man."

Then the sage lifted up his voice and said solemnly:

"On her tongue dwelleth music; the sweetness of honey floweth from her lips; humility is like a crown of glory about her head; her eye speaketh softness and love; her husband putteth his heart in her bosom and findeth joy."

"Oh, you are all too good to me," murmured Iris.

"A friend of mine," said Mr. Emblem, "now, like nearly all my friends, beneath the sod, used to say that a good marriage was a happy blending of the finest Wallsend with the most delicate Silkstone. But he was in the coal trade. For my own part, I have always thought that it is like the binding of two scarce volumes into one."

"Oh, not second-hand volumes, grandfather," said Iris.

"I don't know. Certainly not new ones. Not volumes under one-and-twenty, if you please. Mr. Arbuthnot, I am glad; you will know why very soon. I am very glad that Iris made her choice before her twenty-first birthday. Whatever may happen now, no one can say that either of you were influenced by any expectations. You both think yourselves paupers; well, I say nothing, because I know nothing. But, children, if a great thing happen to you and that before four and-twenty hours have passed, be prepared—be prepared, I say—to receive it with moderate rejoicing."

"To-morrow?" Iris asked. "Why to-morrow? Why not to-night, if you have a secret to tell us?"

"Your father enjoined in his last letter to wait till you were twenty-one. The eve of your birthday, however, is the same thing as your birthday. We will open the papers to-night. What I have to tell you, Iris, shall be told in the presence of your lover, whatever it is—good or bad."

He led the way down stairs into the back shop. Here he lit the gas, and began to open his case, slowly and cautiously.

"Eighteen years ago, Iris, my child, I received your father's last letter, written on his death-bed. This I have already told you. He set down, in that letter, several things which surprised me very much. We shall come to these things presently. He also laid down certain instructions for your bringing up, my dear. I was, first of all, to give you as good an education as I could afford; I was to keep you as much as possible separated from companions who might not be thought afterwards fit to be the friends of a young lady. You have had as good an education as Lala Roy and I could devise between us. From him you have learned mathematics, so as to steady your mind and make you exact; and you have learned the science of heraldry from me, so that you may at once step into your own place in the polite world, where, no doubt, it is a familiar and a necessary study. You have also learned music, because that is an accomplishment which every one should possess. What more can any girl want for any station? My dear, I am happy to think that a gentleman is your lover. Let him tell us, too—Lala Roy and me—to our very face, if he thinks we have, between us, made you a lady."

Arnold stooped and kissed her hand.

"There is no more perfect lady," he said, "in all the land."

"Iris's father, Mr. Arbuthnot, was a gentleman of honorable and ancient family, and I will tell you, presently, as soon as I find it out myself, his real name. As for his coat-of-arms, he bore Quarterly, first and fourth, two roses and a boar's head erect; second and third, gules and fesse between—strange, now, that I have forgotten what was between. Everybody calls himself a gentleman nowadays; even Mr. Chalker, who is going to sell me up, I suppose; but everybody, if you please, is not armiger. Iris, your father was armiger. I suppose I am a gentleman on Sundays, when I go to church with Iris, and wear a black coat. But your father, my dear, though he married my daughter, was a gentleman by birth. And one who knows heraldry respects a gentleman by birth." He laid his hand now on the handle of the safe, as if the time were nearly come for opening it, but not quite. "He sent me, with this last letter, a small parcel for you, my dear, not to be opened until you reached the age of twenty-one. As for the person who had succeeded to his inheritance, she was to be left in peaceable possession for a reason which he gave—quite a romantic story, which I will tell you presently—until you came of age. He was very urgent on this point. If, however, any disaster of sickness or misfortune fell upon me, I was to act in your interests at once, without waiting for time. Children," the old man added solemnly, "by the blessing of heaven—I cannot take it as anything less—I have been spared in health and fortune until this day. Now let me depart in peace, for my trust is expired, and my child is safe, her inheritance secured, with a younger and better protector." He placed the key in the door of the safe. "I do not know, mind," he said, still hesitating to take the final step; "I do not know the nature of the inheritance; it may be little or may be great. The letter does not inform me on this point. I do not even know the name of the testator, my son-in-law's father. Nor do I know the name of my daughter's husband. I do not know even your true name, Iris, my child. But it is not Agnes."

"Then, have I been going under a false name all my life?"

"It was the name your father chose to bear for reasons which seemed good and right unto him, and these are part of the story which I shall have to tell you. Will you have this story first, or shall we open the safe and read the contents of the parcel?"

"I?" said Arnold, "let us sit down and look in each other's faces."

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Before purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Rand Bros. *

—Capt. Wm. Ingram, submarine diver, is prepared to attend to all orders in his line which may be entrusted to him. See his card.

—John Partridge, Lansdowne House, Yates street, has a new and select stock of Fans, Feathers and lace goods, which he wishes the public to call and inspect.

—We have been requested to state that at the opening of the new theatre on Friday evening next, the minuet will be given before the Pirates of Penzance begins, and not between the first and second acts as formerly understood.

—A public meeting of the Anti-Chinese wage workers, mechanics and those unemployed in this city is to be held this (Tuesday) evening in Harmony Hall, View street. All are invited to attend.

—The Olympian brought freight for: Bornstein, H Tilton, Welch, Rithet & Co, W Heathorn, S L Kelly, J Parker, Mrs T Broker, D W Higgins, Munro Miller, L M Taylor, A Cowan, Mrs C Jeffreys, Thos Earle, C Strauss & Co, Jas Cunningham.

—Mr. J. Finlayson is now ready to supply the public with the best and freshest groceries from a carefully selected stock. The increased accommodation secured in his new and elegant premises enables him to carry a more varied stock, and to fill all orders promptly. We hope his enterprise will meet with a deserving reward.

—Dr. Tolmie has for sale several well broken in gentle horses, of various ages, which he offers to responsible parties on trial. Also short-horn bull calves, three-quarter bred, almost as symmetrical as thoroughbreds, in exchange for which he will accept cash, wheat, oats or potatoes. This is a rare chance to procure a high class animal at reasonable terms.

—The Chinese question is having an important effect on business affairs in Seattle. Mr. J. C. Comerford, formerly editor of the Ledger, has left that paper, presumably on account of a disagreement on the all absorbing question, while depositors have withdrawn their money from the Tacoma National Bank because General Sprague, the President, has identified himself with the pro-Chinese sympathisers.

—The Amities of Victoria, says the Post-Intelligencer, have written to the Reds of Seattle, inviting them to take part in a base ball tournament at the former place some time this month. The Portland club which visited Seattle three months since has been extended a similar invitation. At least two matches are to be played, and the club which is successful in both is to be awarded a purse of $200. The Reds will probably accept and will meet their competitors with a team strengthened by the addition of Messrs. Fairbairn and Burwell.

THE PETROLEUM DISCOVERY.

Mr. George Taylor Returns to the City with Samples.

Mr. George Taylor, who in company with Mr. W. L. McDonald and several others, went to Comox about two weeks ago to prospect for crude petroleum, returned to the city yesterday. The party went inland about four miles from the coast at a distance of 30 miles above Comox. Mr. McDonald led them to the spot where he had a short time ago procured the sample exhibited by him in this city. Mr. Taylor found the ravine a very heavily timbered one; he succeeded, however, in gathering up about a gallon off the top of the water found in different parts of the ravine which he brought back with him to this city and now to be seen at the office of Messrs. Rand Bros., Fort street. It is understood that samples are to be sent to-day by express to San Francisco and New York for analysation. Mr. Taylor, who has had much experience in the oil business claims the article discovered by Mr. McDonald to be a capital sample of a lubricant.

Mrs. Hampson's Mission.

At the close of Mrs. Hampson's mission last night, 56 persons stood up for prayer. Cards had been provided to the congregation, with the request that every person who had derived benefit from the services, should write his or her name, address and the name of the church with which the applicant wished to be connected. In response to the invitation 78 persons returned their cards, showing that the labors of the evangelist had been crowned with marked success. The churches named were: Reformed Episcopal, 1; Baptist, 1; Congregational, 1; Church of England, 15; Presbyterian, 16; and Methodist, 45. Mrs. Hampson's labors in Victoria will close to-night, when she will speak on "Temperance," after which the lady will take a well-deserved rest for about a week before leaving the city.

The Ubiquitous Briton.

It is not improbable that when the north pole is found, an enterprising Englishman will be discovered in the neighborhood, attracted thither on some colonizing or commercial venture. The U. S. steamship Corwin, just returned from the Arctic, found two English tourists at St. Michael's. These adventurous travelers had just completed a remarkable trip—from Great Slave Lake to the McKenzie River, thence to the Yukon down, which they traveled to St. Michael's. They had traveled through a country that the foot of white man had never trod.

A Building Collapsed.

The old wooden building, at the foot of Johnson street, owned by Mr. J. W. Williams, and occupied by Baker & Son as a warehouse for the storage of baled hay, fell with a crash on Tuesday evening. The weight of the hay was too great for the strength of the old structure, which has stood for twenty-seven years. The bales fell through to the basement story, and some into the water. Messrs. Baker & Son have been very unfortunate of late, having sustained three heavy losses, by accident, within as many months.

POLICE COURT.

[Before E. Johnson, S. M.]

Phillip Miller, John Davis, Andrew Wright, drunks; fined $5 each.

Wm. Miller, supplying an Indian woman with liquor. Adjourned until tomorrow.

C. E. Apponyi, charged by Edward Mallandaine with using threatening language. Mr. Walls appeared for plaintiff and Mr. Wilson for defendant.

Edward Mallandaine sworn:—On Saturday last, at 2 p. m., while in my office on Broughton street, Mr. Apponyi came in and asked me if I had written a letter to THE TIMES; I said "no," when he told me I "lied," and if the letter appeared he would give me a horse whipping, and the d——est licking I ever had, at the same time shaking his fist in my face. He said he would spend $200 in the matter. Have never written a letter criticizing the new theatre. There was nothing to justify him in making the threat.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wilson—I write letters to the paper when it suits me; I did not write a letter with the title "Macaroni, the man with all the brains"—never wrote a line of it. Have been good friends with Mr. Apponyi; have never been a guest at his house, and was not at his house on Saturday.

Mr. Wilson submitted that there was no threat at all as the conditions were not present. Mr. Apponyi had no objection to a fair criticism of his abilities as an architect, but he decidedly objected to personal attacks in the newspapers, such as had appeared in the press of this city. He had been engaged in superintending a very large building, and nothing had occurred to warrant the aspersions that had been made on his character.

The magistrate said that every person had a right to write to the papers if he sees fit and if he should publish a libel there would be recourse against them. He directed that Mr. Apponyi enter into his own recognizance of $50 to keep the peace for six months.

Captain Thomas F. Wilson, charged with an infraction of the quarantine regulations. Mr. Gannaway, of Drake, Helmcken & Jackson, for Dominion Government; Mr. Walker, of Davie & Pooley, for defence. Adjourned until Thursday.

SPECIAL PRIZE GIVEN BY D. W. GORDON, M.P.

Best thoroughbred bull, S Sandover; best 5 lbs. butter, Mrs. Bryant; best homemade bread, Mrs Sandover.

The colt, entered by Mrs. Hibben, and which carried off the first prize, was sired by "Frank Hastings," the dam having been sired by "Top Gallant." The Governor General and party were shown this yearling, and praised it highly.

Certificates to Coolies.

All of the three or four hundred Chinamen who left for their native land yesterday, on the bark Alden Besse, carried with them certificates. The coolies thus supplied with return passports are the serfs of wealthy Chinese merchants, who contracted at so much per head with resident contractors for the supply of this cheap slave labor. Their passage from China, and return thereto, is a portion of the contract. Individually it was not the intention of any of these slaves to return to British Columbia, for the simple reason that their actions are controlled by their masters, who will send them wherever they can find work for them. But what becomes of the certificates? It is safe to assume that they will, at some future time, be presented to our customs officials, and by Chinamen who were never in the country. The certificates procured by the slave-owners for their slaves, will be sold to other Celestials, and as under the working of our restriction act it is utterly impossible to establish the identity of the holders of these papers, the spirit and intent of the law will be defeated.

Runaway.

A team of horses belonging to Mr. King runaway from near Gowan's brewery this afternoon. They ran down Yates street at a furious rate, the neck yoke in front. They came to a sudden stop in Messrs. Turner, Beeton & Co.'s door, where they got jammed, both falling. They escaped without injury.

The Pirates of Penzance.
